

SPRING SAFARI

The frogs and peepers are singing away. The birds are noisily returning and working on nest building. Spring flowers are popping out of the ground everywhere and soon the dandelions will appear. What child doesn't enjoy these bright yellow beauties! What mother hasn't received a bouquet of dandelions clutched in her child's chubby little fingers.

This is probably a little child's first flower experience. Worms are coming out of the ground and insects are appearing in the air. Animals are waking up and new animal babies are on the scene. Observation, exploration and appreciation of our world are wonderful gifts you can give a youth. Nature's rebirth can be enjoyed by both children and adults and it's just a walk away. Find a child or better yet 2 or 3 and go outside on a spring safari with them. It will do your heart and soul good to see the world of nature through the eyes of a child.
